Warby Outdoor Side Table Brown

The look of travertine, the resilience of concrete — Warby has it both ways. An innovative water-transfer process patterns stone-like veining onto a concrete and fiberglass body, giving the side table organic character with a playful, sculptural form. Because it's concrete at heart, it shrugs off the weather and stays put through the seasons. Finished in a warm brown, it brings the calm of natural stone to a patio, ready for easy outdoor living.

- Concrete and Fiberglass: A concrete and fiberglass body gives the table genuine heft and solidity, grounding it on a patio with the substance of true stone.
- Travertine, Reimagined: A water-transfer process patterns stone-like veining across the surface, giving the table the look of natural travertine with a playful, organic form.
- Warm Brown Finish: A warm brown tone brings an earthy, grounded color to outdoor seating, pairing easily with wood, greenery, and natural settings.
- Made for Outdoors: Water-resistant and weather-ready, it holds its finish and form outside, ready for drinks, plants, or a place to rest a book.
