Ames Ping Pong Table

A table tennis table that pulls double duty as a dining table. Remove the net and the Ames becomes a wide, generous dining surface, earning its place in a room two ways at once. A deep, dark finish runs across the whole piece for a unified, furniture-grade look, grounded by chunky, square legs. Drawers at each end keep the four rackets and eight balls stored within the table itself. Dinner, then a match, no setup required.

- Dines And Plays: Remove the net and the wide top becomes a generous dining surface, so the table earns its place as both a games and dining table.
- Mango Wood And Metal: A mango wood frame with metal hardware and PU leather trim keeps the table solid and refined, grounding play in furniture-grade materials.
- Storage On Board: Integrated drawers at each end keep four rackets and eight balls stored within the table, so everything stays neat and ready to play.
- Ready To Play: Each table arrives complete with four rackets and eight balls, a considered, ready-to-play package that needs nothing more to get the game going.
