Warby Outdoor Dining Table Brown

Travertine looks, concrete backbone—Warby plays a clever trick. A water-transfer process patterns the concrete to mimic the organic look of travertine, giving the freeform dining table a playful, sculptural presence in a warm brown. Cast concrete carries natural variation in color, pattern, and texture, so no two tables are exactly alike. A concrete top joined with metal keeps it grounded and steady. Suited to indoor or outdoor use, it brings sculptural shape to a patio or a dining room. Faux travertine, character to spare.

- Faux Travertine Finish: A water-transfer process patterns the concrete to mimic travertine, giving the freeform dining table a playful, organic, and sculptural look from any angle.
- Cast Concrete Character: Cast concrete carries natural variation in color, pattern, and texture piece to piece, so no two Warby tables are exactly alike.
- Steady Base: Joined with a sturdy metal base, the freeform dining table stays grounded and stable for gatherings indoors or out across the seasons.
- Indoor Or Out: Suited to patio or dining room, it brings sculptural, organic presence to meals—store inside or cover during inclement weather as needed.
