Alina Sideboard Natural

Raised-panel doors with enough moulding to cast a shadow. Layers of precisely routed moulding give the Alina sideboard an architectural depth and dimension that make the whole piece feel considered, grounded by a solid plinth base. A warm natural oak finish lets the grain run across both door panels and the frame, and push-to-open doors keep the front clean. The moulding does all the talking.

- Architectural Depth: Deeply profiled raised-panel doors layer routed moulding into striking depth and dimension, giving the sideboard a considered, architectural front and presence.
- Warm Oak Finish: A warm natural oak finish runs the grain across both door panels and the solid oak frame, keeping the whole piece warm and cohesive.
- Grounded Plinth: A solid plinth base anchors the sideboard with a grounded, substantial stance that balances the depth and detail of the doors above.
- Push-To-Open Doors: Push-to-open doors keep the front free of hardware, letting the moulding detail lead while concealed storage stays clean and easy to access.
