I was pleasantly surprised at the power and usefulness of the top down chopper. It's so easy to use and take apart for cleaning. Everything goes in the dishwasher. The blades are positioned for the best chopping I've found. I have two other small choppers that don't work as well as the kitchenaid chopper. I really love being able to use this without a cord.

 Yes, I recommend this product.

This is an easy cordless and compact chopper. The cordless is a huge plus as I can move around the kitchen freely. The chopper is pretty sharp and works efficiently

I absolutely love this food chopper! It can be completely cordless! It comes with the battery needed and it's so nice for prepping my veggies for dishes. I especially love how easy is it to clean and store the food because you can get extra bowls with lids, which cuts work on dishes!

This thing works great one of the best choppers I've had so far, I like it because there is no cord and you can use it any where. It chops great from course to fine depends on what you want with ease.

I loved that this was super easy to use and had fewer parts than a traditional food processor. I was easily able to make homemade pesto in a couple of minutes. I also liked that I could just put the lid on the bowl for storage in the refrigerator. I will definitely be using this when I don't want to use my food processor to make a small batch of something!

Q: I have the cordless mini processor and love it. I'm wondering if the chopping functionality on this is different? Does it make sense to have both?
