

AIDAN GRAY

Heavily watermarked and corroded, these mirrors are meant to look ages old. The variations of colors found under the toughened glass are a result of tin sulfates and mildly acidic solutions that interact under the sun. They will continue to age with time and exposure to light. No two will ever be alike, so rest assured that the one that ends up over your fireplace is truly

This represents the full range of what may come out of any given box.

