Designed by Barry Goralnick, the Kika Flush Mount is the perfect fixture for all areas where a flush-mount is essential: in both residential and contract design projects. From the masculine form—a perfect square—a voluptuous feminine bowl emerges. The frosted glass and soft, champagne gilded finish are an unexpected flourish on the architectural form. Goralnick's approach as an architect is evident in this fixture. He often starts with a true geometric form and then breaks the rules by reimagining it through his point of view. In this case, the circular form cuts through and emerges from the basic square in a simple, yet powerful way.
