FAUX BOIS KNOW-HOW

Hairline cracks occur and are part of the natural beauty and uniqueness of each piece. These are part of the natural curing process of concrete, but they do not affect durability or structural integrity because of the steel frame underneath.

The finish will vary and range from gray to brownish to greenish. The finish will continue to change over time, and over the first few months it will darken slightly.

Each piece is created by hand, and the texture and appearance of the concrete can vary.

Joining our faux bois furniture and birdbaths in our garden lineup is the Faux Bois Planter made of concrete in a Portland finish. As is the case with all of our products that honor the lauded fake-wood movement, the plant pot is reinforced with wrought iron. When introduced into a setting, the whimsical decorative planter will be a classic from day one.
