Forli Marble Box Rainforest Green

Rainforest green marble cut into eight architectural sides. The octagonal form gives the Forli box a refined, considered presence, its chamfered corners catching light in subtle, jewel-like ways. Natural marble means deep green tone and veining no two boxes share, bringing genuine stone character to a bedside or dressing table. It holds rings, jewelry, and small objects, yet has the presence to sit purely as sculpture. Function and form, in equal measure.

- Architectural Octagon: An octagonal form with chamfered corners gives the box a refined, architectural quality, sitting somewhere between a functional object and a piece of sculpture.
- Rainforest Green Marble: Natural rainforest green marble brings deep tone and veining unique to each box, lending genuine stone character and weight to the form.
- Chamfered Corners: The chamfered edges catch light in subtle ways, giving the box a jewel-like quality that reads as decorative as it is useful.
- Beside or on Display: It holds rings, jewelry, and small objects on a bedside, dressing table, or desk, with enough presence to stand alone as decoration.
